RED BULL PRO NATIONALS GO DOWN WELL FOR COBRA AT SILVERSTONE

Dylan Woodcock and his Factory Cobra teammate Ryan Vickers lead the Red Bull Pro Nationals pack at the first motocross event on the new Silverstone mx circuit.

The 4th round of the Red Bull Pro Nationals was always going to be something different for Cobra as we rolled into Silverstone as part of the Air Asia British Moto GP. The all new Silverstone motocross circuit witnessed some incredible racing, particularly on Saturday night and although the track was far from ideal the event itself was a success with many plenty of the Moto GP fans enjoying their first motocross experience.

The MCF and Silverstone knew it would be tough to get a brand new track perfect in its preparations as it was only finished a week prior to the event but that never stopped the racing being tight in all the classes and that was enough to impress the road bike fanatics that came over to check it out.

With a race programme designed to fit around the Moto GP schedule the weekend was spread out over three days with the Pro class, the Fuchs-Silkolene 125cc British 2 stroke riders and a standalone Elite 65cc class which didn't count towards the Red Bull Elite Youth Cup championship but nonetheless, like the other two classes didn't disappoint.

After six races over the weekend cool cat Dylan Woodcock took the overall win in the 65cc class ahead of his Cobra teammate Ryan Vickers. Vickers set down a marker in qualifying as he was 5 seconds clear but several crashes in the first race had him playing catch up for the rest of the weekend on the smooth Woodcock who looks every bit the motocross star with his long hair and Supercross style! The ever improving Harry Wichman took third and as the weekend went on became more of a threat to the Cobra pair to take the final step on the podium ahead of Drew Warren. Dee-Jay Walker made it three Cobra's in the top six with a creditable fifth place while Jaydon Murphy battled hard all weekend for the final sixth placed trophy.
